WHAT IS THE STRAWBERRY?

It is a plant of the genus Tragaria, belonging to the order Rosaceae. The calyx is ten-cleft, the petals five, and seeds are embedded in a fleshy receptacle, which is the delicious and fragrant fruit.

The plant is a dwarf perennial, of stocky habit; the stalk is generally long, and more or less hirsute. The hautbois, which is now believed to be a cultivated form of F. vesca, was probably the earliest garden strawberry. The chief wild strawberries of the U. S. are Fragaria virginiana and F. Americana. Garden varieties have been derived chiefly from F. Chiloinsis, the Chilian strawberry and the Virginia species.

Strawberries grow best on a moderately rich loam soil well drained, but adapts itself to almost all other soils.

HELLO, EVERYBODY!

January 1, 1960

First, I want to thank every friend and customer for the splendid orders I have received. It's simply Wonderful.

It's time to talk again about my Kardinal King strawberries.

This is my 13th descriptive folder and price list. I have been raising many varieties of vegetables, fruits, and berries the last 51 years, and what I am saying is the truth. It is too late in life to be different. I've tried many, many new varieties in the last 51 years to find the best strawberry, and believe me I have found it. It's the new Kardinal King.

So many varieties have a fault or two—too sour or soft, too small or run small soon, dull appearance, etc. It costs no more to raise a sweet, large and attractive berry, and what a pleasure when you pick them and when selling them. Well, they sell on sight.

Kardinal King strawberry is summer bearing. It is truly the sweetest, largest and finest berry. The hulls stay green and have a bright, glossy appearance. It is very early: three or four days later than the earliest, to late in season and holds to good size till last. It is a very vigorous grower and plant maker. The plants are medium size, but grow large in Spring as they blossom. It is disease free, and seems to thrive in all soils and has no faults that I know of, and I ought to know as I have fruited it 16 years, and that is long enough for a fault to develop. Don't plant too close or you will have too many runner plants.

Make sure you get my pure true-to-name Kardinal Kings — none better.

CULTURE DIRECTIONS:

For garden culture, I would plant 20 inches in row and rows $3\frac{1}{2}$ feet apart. For field culture, I would plant 24 inches to 30 inches in row and rows $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet to $5\frac{1}{2}$ feet. It all depends on your soil, care and rain.

REMEMBER:

My plants are State inspected twice yearly, and are all grown on rich, moderate clay loam upland soil where the best flavored vegetables and berries grow.

Strawberries must be planted so the crown is even with the level soil and keep free of all weeds, and I would not plant where you have much chick weed as it grows fastest in early spring and chokes out your fruit.

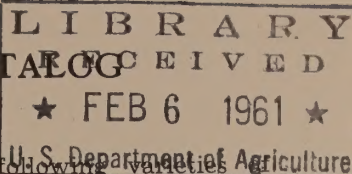

You may use Vigoro as a side dressing if needed after planted and then mulch two inches with fine cut wheat straw or corn stalks as soon as the ground freezes, and leave on as the plants have power to push through, and then top dress with fine chicken manure or stable manure or complete fertilizer. And then be ready when they ripen for your biggest surprise — the tickle, tantalizing taste for weeks; yes, for years.

I have had Kardinal Kings that weighed $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 ounces each and measured $5\frac{1}{2}$ x $5\frac{1}{4}$ inches and 12 berries to the pound is common. I have proof and witness to the above. One of my customers reports 12 berries to the quart. I have many satisfied customers that praise my Kardinal King—north, south, east and west. Will you be one more?

You can't plant any other fruit for so little money and in one year reap such big results as strawberries, especially Kardinal King.

And best of all, Kardinal King gives no knotty or green or seedy ends. They are round conical in shape

SUPPLEMENT TO 1960 CATALOG

TO MY FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS:

This is to inform you that I have added the following varieties of strawberries and seeds.

I want to tell you again about my great Kardinal Kings. I still can't find a better strawberry, no matter what they are named or who sells them.

My orders mostly come from former customers. Why?

Here is one proof:

I just received an unsolicited letter from a former customer that I had sold him Kardinal Kings about 14 years ago: "We are still enjoying your Kardinal Kings. We have increased each year, very largely, our plantings and can sell them as fast as we can pick them, at our place of business. Thanks so much, and I wish you great success.

Here are other varieties that I am adding to my list and are certified (one year removed).

My plants are all grown where there has not any strawberries grown for at least 50 years. My plants are all healthy and vigorous. My State Inspector said last fall: "If all nursery stock were as free of disease as your strawberries, there would be no need for inspection."

REDSTAR — A very late variety, very large plants, large fruit with a big cap and good flavor.

GOLDEN BELL — Just what it's name implies, large plants and fruit and long runner. Don't plant too close together.

EARLIDAWN — Just a few days earlier than my Kardinal Kings, but good. A moderate plant maker.

EARLIMORE — A promising new variety.

MIDLAND — Early, good quality.

WILD FLAVOR — Medium sized plants, very vigorous plant maker. Don't plant too close. All priced the same as Kardinal King. P. Pd.

PUMPKIN—FIELD — A very large, smooth skinned fruit. Is better for pies than ordinary field pumpkin. Seed from a 42 lb. pumpkin. Try it. Price—1 pkt., 20 cents; ½ oz., 60 cents.

BEAN—Pole — White seeded, 10 - 12 in. creased back, green pod, a prolific crop maker for home or market. Price — 1 pkt., 20 cents; 3 pkts., 55 cents; ¼ lb., 75 cents.

CORN—Sweet — The sweetest corn that grows, ears 4 - 5 in., stalks 3 - 5 feet, stools out a lot of shoots that produce small ears 2 - 3 weeks after the first ear then remains good eating for 10 days. It is unusual. Try it. You won't be disappointed at its 4 - 5 in. ears. Price—1 pkt., 20 cents; 3 pkt. size, 50 cents.

Order early. All above P. Pd.

NOTICE—You may make your own combination of varieties of strawberries for the same price.

OZARK BEAUTY — The best everbearing that grows. 25 — $2.00; 50—$3.75; 100—$7.00, P. Pd.

WHAT IS THE KARDINAL KING?

First — Kirdinal King is so far superior in earliest, size, flavor, productiveness, appearance, vigor and disease free, that it tops them all. It is truly and correctly named — KARDINAL KING — king of all strawberries; king for size, king for beauty, king for sweetness and flavor. It is a joy to work around them, such fine, big healthy and vigorous looking, no diseased plants, and picking them — Oh, Boy!

It is also a good freezer.

And what could I say more. In one word — it's extra super wonderful!

I do not know its parentage.

You just plant a lot and find out for yourself.

My motto is: not how cheap, but how good.

I have a fine lot of plants for you this season in spite of the driest season I ever went through.

Please order early, as I have been sold and and thousands of plants short for orders for last three years.

Please send cash, check or money order with order, and state when wanted.

I plan to ship Southern orders first and fresh dug plants each day, starting about April 18 to May 16,'60.

All orders are prepaid to your address by Parcel Post or Express.
